Dear Mr. Mann,

RE: Letter of Gratitude

At the end of 2004, my younger brother, entered into a marriage with a young woman from overseas who appeared to be from a very morally, ethically, and professionally well based family. Unfortunately, it was not until after the marriage that we discovered that all the representations made to our family were completely false, and that our family had already invested a great deal of money and personal reputation in a venture that was neither sound nor seemingly safe for our youngest member.

After doing some research, we discovered Mr. Mann and his firm, his reputation for integrity, honesty, and privacy was exactly what we needed at that point in our family's dilemma. Mr. Mann's service and sensitivity was unbelievable, he quickly became a member of our extended family, and was on call to our family twenty four hours a day, his firm was able to reach out across several continents, and did everything from personal background searches, financial holding and asset valuations, physical surveillance as well advanced monitoring suffice it to say there was nothing Mr. Mann was not able to provide to our family and our lawyers in our time of need. His associates were able to provide us with information regarding criminal gang activity and dissolution of assets that we had no way of knowing.

Furthermore, he was constantly following to make certain that everything was alright with our family, and especially with my younger brother, realizing the culturally and socially significant aspects of divorce and annulment. Given the complicated issues involved in instigating and completing a divorce procedure in two countries, one a first world nation and the other a foreign nation, it would have been impossible without the excellent and timely information and assistance provided by Mr. Mann and his firm.

In conclusion, I can say this that when the matter became potentially violent, Mr. Mann made himself available to us twenty-four hours a day and we were deeply touched by his constant and sincere concern for our well-being.

It is rare that you find a professional of such stature that maintains his integrity, honesty, and privacy. I would recommend Mr. Mann and his firm to anyone in my family and amongst my friends as well as anyone who is in need of any assistance from an all purpose firm. Mr. Mann will not simply investigate matters for you; he will take care of your interests in a manner that is very rare in today's society.

Sincerely,
